ITEM #: 3.A
SUBJECT: Presentation & Discussion Regarding the National Community Survey Results.

ITEM SUMMARY

This item is to discuss the results of the National Citizen Survey, based on the random sampling of Prescott citizens. This survey was conducted to assist the City Council in upcoming strategic planning, engage citizens in a statistically valid manner, and provide benchmarking to cities of Prescott's size from across the nation.

BACKGROUND

The survey was conducted from October 10, 2023 to November 21, 2023. The survey was mailed to a random sampling of 3,000 Prescott households to ensure the results were statistically valid. 770 total responses were received and statistically reflect Prescott overall. Based on the number of responses, there is 95% confidence in the results with a +/- 3% margin of error.

There was also an open-participation survey conducted for citizens who were not randomly selected in the 3,000 households, which resulted in 270 responses.

FINANCIAL IMPACT

None.

RECOMMENDED ACTION

This item is for discussion only. No formal action will be taken.

About The NCS™

The National Community Survey™ (The NCS™) report is about the “livability” of Prescott. A livable community is a place that is not simply habitable, but that is desirable. It is not only where people do live, but where they want to live. The NCS was developed by the experts from National Research Center at Polco in partnership with the International City/County Management Association (ICMA) and has been administered in hundreds of communities across the United States.

Great communities are partnerships of the government, private sector, community-based organizations and residents, all geographically connected. The NCS focuses on the livability of Prescott by categorizing survey questions into the ten main “facets” of community livability shown below, which have been identified through years of extensive survey research as those that are most impactful to residents’ quality of life.

- Economy
- Mobility
- Community Design
- Utilities
- Safety
- Natural Environment
- Parks and Recreation
- Health and Wellness
- Education, Arts, and Culture
- Inclusivity and Engagement

The report provides the opinions of a representative sample of 770 residents of the City of Prescott collected from October 10, 2023 to November 21, 2023. The margin of error around any reported percentage is 3.5% for all respondents and the response rate for the 2023 survey was 27%. Survey results were weighted so that the demographic profile of respondents was representative of the demographic profile of adults in Prescott.

How the results are reported

For the most part, the percentages presented in this report represent the “percent positive.” Most commonly, the percent positive is the combination of the top two most positive response options (i.e., excellent/good, very safe/somewhat safe, etc.). On many of the questions in the survey, respondents may answer “don’t know.” The proportion of respondents giving a “don’t know” response is shown in the full set of responses included in the “complete data” section; however, these responses have been removed from the analyses presented in the main body of the report. In other words, the tables and graphs display the responses from respondents who had an opinion about a specific item.

Comparisons to benchmarks

NRC’s database of comparative resident opinion is comprised of resident perspectives gathered in surveys from over 500 communities whose residents evaluated the same kinds of topics on The National Community Survey. The comparison evaluations are from the most recent survey completed in each community in the last five years. NRC adds the latest results quickly upon survey completion, keeping the benchmark data fresh and relevant. The communities in the database represent a wide geographic and population range. In each tab, Prescott’s results are noted as being “higher” than the benchmark, “lower” than the benchmark, or “similar” to the benchmark, meaning that the average rating given by Prescott residents is statistically similar to or different (greater or lesser) than the benchmark. Being rated as “higher” or “lower” than the benchmark means that Prescott’s average rating for a particular item was more than 10 points different than the benchmark. If a rating was “much higher” or “much lower,” then Prescott’s average rating was more than 20 points different when compared to the benchmark.

This survey was administered after the COVID-19 pandemic, a time of challenge for many local governments. While we provide comparisons to the national benchmarks, it is important to note that much of the benchmark data was collected prior to the pandemic. This may impact how your City’s 2023 ratings compare to other communities’ ratings from the past five years.

Methods

Selecting survey recipients

All households within the City of Prescott were eligible to participate in the survey. A list of all households within the zip codes serving Prescott was purchased from NRC's mailing vendor, Go-Dog Direct, based on updated listings from the United States Postal Service. Since some of the zip codes that serve the City of Prescott households may also serve addresses that lie outside of the community, the exact geographic location of each housing unit was compared to community boundaries using the most current municipal boundary file. Addresses located outside of Prescott boundaries were removed from the list of potential households to survey. From that list, addresses were randomly selected as survey recipients, with multi-family housing units (defined as those with a unit number) sampled at a rate of 5:3 compared to single family housing units.

An individual within each household was randomly selected using the birthday method. The birthday method selects a person within the household by asking the "person who most recently had a birthday" to complete the questionnaire. The underlying assumption in this method is that day of birth has no relationship to the way people respond to surveys. This instruction was contained in the introduction of the survey.

Conducting the survey

The 3,000 randomly selected households received mailings beginning on October 10, 2023 and data collection for the survey remained open for six weeks. The first mailing was a postcard inviting the household to participate in the survey. The next mailing contained a cover letter with instructions, the survey questionnaire, and a postage-paid return envelope. The final mailing was a reminder postcard inviting the household one final time to participate in the survey. All mailings included a web link to give residents the opportunity to respond to the survey online. All follow-up mailings asked those who had not completed the survey to do so, and those who had already done so to refrain from completing the survey again.

About 4% of the 3,000 mailed invitations or surveys were returned because the household address was vacant or the postal service was unable to deliver the survey as addressed. Of the remaining 2,877 households that received the invitations to participate, 770 completed the survey, providing an overall response rate of 27%. The response rate was calculated using AAPOR's response rate #2 for mailed surveys of unnamed persons.¹

It is customary to describe the precision of estimates made from surveys by a "level of confidence" and accompanying "confidence interval" (or margin of error). A traditional level of confidence, and the one used here, is 95%. The 95% confidence interval can be any size and quantifies the sampling error or imprecision of the survey results because some residents' opinions are relied on to estimate all residents' opinions. The margin of error for the City of Prescott survey is no greater than plus or minus 3.5 percentage points around any given percent reported for all respondents (770 completed surveys).

In addition to the randomly selected "probability sample" of households, a link to an online open-participation survey was publicized by the City of Prescott. The open-participation survey was identical to the random sample survey, with two small updates; it asked a question to confirm the respondent was a resident of Prescott and also a question about where they heard about the survey. The open-participation survey was open to all city residents and became available on November 7, 2023. The survey remained open for two weeks. The data presented in the following tabs exclude the open participation survey data, but a tab at the end provides the complete frequency of responses to questions by the open-participation respondents.

Analyzing the data

Responses from mailed surveys were entered into an electronic dataset using a “key and verify” method, where all responses are entered twice and compared to each other. Any discrepancies were resolved in comparison to the original survey form. Range checks as well as other forms of quality control were also performed. Responses from surveys completed on Polco were downloaded and merged with the mailed survey responses.

The demographics of the survey respondents were compared to those found in the 2020 Census and 2022 American Community Survey estimates for adults in the City of Prescott. The primary objective of weighting survey data is to make the survey respondents reflective of the larger population of the community. The characteristics used for weighting were age, sex, race, Hispanic origin, housing type, and housing tenure. No adjustments were made for design effects. Weights were calculated using an iterative, multiplicative raking model known as the ANES Weighting Algorithm.² The results of the weighting scheme for the probability sample are presented in the following table.

NRC aligns demographic labels with those used by the U.S. Census for reporting purposes, when possible. Some categories (e.g., age, race/Hispanic origin, housing type, and length of residency) are combined into smaller subgroups.

		Unweighted	Weighted	Target ⁴
Age	18-34	3%	14%	17%
	35-54	8%	18%	17%
	55+	89%	68%	65%

	Woman 18-34	2%	9%	8%
	Woman 35-54	5%	9%	9%
	Woman 55+	45%	35%	34%

The survey datasets were analyzed using all or some of a combination of the Statistical Package for the Social Sciences (SPSS), R, Python, and Tableau. For the most part, the percentages presented in the reports represent the “percent positive.” The percent positive is the combination of the top two most positive response options (i.e., excellent/good, very safe/somewhat safe, essential/very important, etc.), or, in the case of resident behaviors/participation, the percent positive represents the proportion of respondents indicating “yes” or participating in an activity at least once a month.

On many of the questions in the survey, respondents may answer “don’t know.” The proportion of respondents giving this reply is shown in the full set of responses included in the “complete data” section. However, these responses have been removed from the analyses presented in the reports. In other words, the tables and graphs display the responses from respondents who had an opinion about a specific item.

Study Limitations

All public opinion research is subject to unmeasured error. While the methodologies employed for this survey were designed to minimize this error as much as possible, these other sources of potential error should be acknowledged, and can include non-response error, coverage error, recall bias and social desirability bias. Non-response error arises when those who were selected to participate in the survey did not do so, and may have different opinions or experiences than survey responders. For general resident surveys, where the results are meant to be generalized to the entire adult population living in households, the mailing lists based on the Delivery Sequence File from the United States Post Office may exclude certain types of housing units, such as those in multi-family buildings where mail is addressed to a named resident at the address rather than to a specific unit or where residents only receive their mail at a post office box and the geographic location of a residence cannot be determined, there may be a coverage error, although for most locations, this is minimal. Respondents may not perfectly remember their experiences in the past year (such as participation in social or civic events, for example), and for some survey items, they may answer in ways they think cast their responses in a more favorable light (recall bias and social desirability bias).

The city's natural environment is valued by residents.

About 9 in 10 survey respondents identified the natural environment as an essential or very important area of focus for the community in the next two years, placing it among residents' top priorities for Prescott. In addition to being immensely important, all evaluations of the quality of the city's natural environment were above or similar to the national average. With a rating of 91% excellent or good, the overall quality of natural environment in Prescott ranked higher than the national benchmarks. Roughly 8 in 10 residents positively reviewed Prescott's air quality and cleanliness, in line with comparison communities. Survey respondents offered water resources a similar rating, which was higher than the benchmark. Prescott open space and recycling services garnered positive marks by two-thirds of participants, while about 6 in 10 said the same for the preservation of natural areas and yard waste pick-up. In a question unique to this survey, 65% of respondents supported a potential increase in sales tax as a funding source for the acquisition of open space.

Prescott residents feel safe and indicate support for additional investment in public safety.

Nearly all survey respondents indicated that they felt very or somewhat safe in both their neighborhood (96% very or somewhat safe) and Prescott's downtown/commercial area during the day (94%). About 9 in 10 survey participants favorably rated their feeling of safety from property crime, higher than the national benchmarks. A similar percentage reportedly felt safe from violent crime, but this score was on par with comparison communities. Resident perception of safety from fire, flood, or other natural disaster also met the national average, with about three-quarters of evaluations being positive.

All safety-related services garnered ratings similar to national averages. Fire services were given excellent or good marks by approximately 9 in 10 residents; about 8 in 10 offered positive evaluations for fire prevention and education, police services, and crime prevention. Approximately three-quarters of reviewers favorably rated animal control and ambulance or emergency medical services, while two-thirds of respondents similarly rated emergency preparedness in Prescott.

The City chose to include additional, unique questions on this survey. When asked for their preferred approach to balancing public safety times with the associated cost, 73% of respondents strongly or somewhat supported shortening public safety response times, even at an additional cost. A similarly high percentage (78%) favored maintaining current response times and costs, while only 15% encouraged the City to accept longer public safety response times at a lower cost. Additionally, 76% of reviewers supported an increase in local sales tax to fund public safety facilities and services.

Some aspects of mobility could present opportunities for growth for the City.

The facet of mobility measures the ease with which residents can move around their communities for leisure or business and is a key driver of resident satisfaction. Scores provided by Prescott residents largely place the city on par with comparison communities, but below-average marks for some aspects of mobility may suggest an opportunity for additional focus on alternative forms of transportation such as bicycling and public transit. When evaluating general aspects of mobility in the community, one-third of respondents gave excellent or good marks to the overall quality of the transportation system in Prescott, below the national benchmark. The ease of walking in the city earned a positive rating from 64%; about 6 in 10 were pleased with the ease of travel by car. The ease of public parking and traffic flow on major streets gained favorable reviews from 4 in 10 participants. One-third of respondents were pleased with the ease of travel by bicycle, falling below the national average. Finally, only 7% of participants positively rated the ease of travel by public transportation, much lower than other communities across the nation. Bus or transit services also received below-average reviews, with 12% of residents assessing it as excellent or good.

In evaluations for mobility-related street services, two-thirds of respondents rated snow removal as excellent or good. About 6 in 10 residents were similarly pleased with street cleaning and street lighting. Sidewalk maintenance and traffic enforcement earned favorable ratings from half of survey participants, while one-third offered a positive score for street repair. Each of these were on par with national benchmark comparisons.

Every jurisdiction must balance limited resources while meeting resident needs and striving to optimize community livability. To this end, it is helpful to know what aspects of the community are most important to residents and which they perceive as being of higher or lower quality. It is especially helpful to know when a facet of livability is considered of high importance but rated as lower quality, as this should be a top priority to address.

Quality-Importance Matrix

To help guide City staff and officials with decisions on future resource allocation, resident ratings of the importance of each facet of community livability were compared to their ratings of the quality of these facet. To identify the facets perceived by residents to have relatively lower quality at the same time as relatively higher importance, all facets were ranked from highest-perceived quality to lowest-perceived quality, and from highest-perceived importance to lowest-perceived importance. Some facets were in the top half of both lists (higher quality and higher importance); some were in the top half of one list, but the bottom half of the other (higher quality and lower importance or lower quality and higher importance); and some facets were in the bottom half of both lists.

Facets receiving quality ratings of excellent or good from 66% or more of respondents were considered of “higher quality” and those with ratings lower than 66% were considered to be of “lower quality.” Facets were classified as “more important” if they were rated as essential or very important by 83% or more of respondents. Facets were rated as “less important” if they received a rating of less than 83%. This classification uses the median ratings for quality and importance to divide the services in half, and thus are comparative ratings rather than absolute (e.g., a lower quality rating does not necessarily signal a “bad” rating, only that this facet was rated lower than the median across all facets).

The quadrants in the figure below show which community facets were given higher or lower importance ratings (right-left) and which had higher or lower quality ratings (up-down). Facets of livability falling closer to a diagonal line from the lower left to the upper right are those where performance ratings are more commensurate with resident priorities. Facets scoring closest to the lower right-hand corner of the matrix (higher in importance and lower in quality) are those that may warrant further investigation to see if changes in these areas are necessary to improve performance. This is the key part of this chart on which to focus. Conversely, facets falling into the upper right-hand quadrant (high in both quality and importance) may be considered areas that are resident priorities, and also where the City is doing well. Finally, facets falling in the top left-hand corner of the chart (lower in importance but higher in quality) are areas where performance may outscore resident priorities, and may be a consideration for lower resource allocation.

Quality and Importance by the Numbers

The charts below show the proportion of residents who rated the community facets positively for quality and the priority (importance) placed on each. Also displayed is whether local ratings were lower, similar, or higher than communities across the country (the national benchmark).

This dashboard contains a complete set of responses to each question on the survey. By default, "don't know" responses are excluded, but may be added to the table using the response filter to the right. In some tables, the percentages may not sum to 100%; this is either because the question permitted the respondent to "choose all that apply", or for a question that asked the respondent to select one answer, it is due to the customary practice of rounding values to the nearest whole number.

Methods (Open Participation)

As part of its participation in The National Community Survey™ (The NCS™), the City of Prescott conducted a survey of 770 residents. Survey invitations were mailed to randomly selected households and data were collected from October 10, 2023 to November 21, 2023. The results from this main survey effort represent the most robust estimate of your residents' opinions.

After the above data collection period was underway, a link to an online open participation survey was publicized by the City of Prescott. The open participation survey was identical to the probability sample survey with two small updates; it asked the respondent to confirm they lived in Prescott and also a question about where they heard about the survey. The open participation survey was open to all city residents and became available on November 7, 2023. The survey remained open for two weeks and there were 270 responses.

The open participation survey data were not collected through a random sample and it is unknown who in the community was aware of the survey; therefore, a level of confidence in the representativeness of the sample cannot be estimated. However, to reduce bias where possible, these data were statistically weighted to match the demographic characteristics of the 2020 Census and 2022 American Community Survey estimates for adults in the City of Prescott. The characteristics used for weighting were age, sex, race, Hispanic origin, housing type, and housing tenure. No adjustments were made for design effects. Weights were calculated using an iterative, multiplicative raking model known as the ANES Weighting Algorithm.¹⁸ The results of the weighting scheme for the..

Open Participation Survey Results

This dashboard contains a complete set of responses to each question on the open participation survey. By default, "don't know" responses are excluded, but may be added to the table using the response filter to the right. In some tables, the percentages may not sum to 100%; this is either because the question permitted the respondent to "choose all that apply", or for a question that asked the respondent to select one answer, it is due to the customary practice of rounding values to the nearest whole number.
